Alabama Workers' Comp. Blawg Named to Lexisnexus Top 25 Blogs for Workers' Compensation

BIRMINGHAM, Oct. 26, 2009—The Alabama Workers' Comp Blawg was recently selected as a LexisNexis Top 25 Blogs for Workers Compensation and Workplace Issues. Selections were made by the LexisNexis Workers' Compensation Law Center staff using feedback from community members and Larson's National Workers' Compensation Advisory Board members. The selection committee had this to say about the blog:

One of the best newcomers this past year has been Alabama Workers' Comp Blawg, which covers both state and national news. What we like about this blog is that it tells you in plain English what the real impact of a court's decision or other change in the law will be, and provides practice pointers and opinions of the writers.

The Blog is owned and maintained by the Birmingham law firm of FISH NELSON, LLC which handles insurance defense litigation with a focus on workers' compensation matters.
